Winter Olympic Roots Run Deep in Ski Town, U.S.A.®

STEAMBOAT'S WINTER OLYMPIANS

When winter athletes gather in Beijing in 2022, it's called the Winter Games. When Olympians gather in Steamboat, it's simply called Friday. Steamboat, known around the globe as Ski Town, U.S.A.®, has more winter Olympians than any other town in North America: 100 and counting. In fact, Steamboat sent more athletes (13) to the 2022 Games than many small countries.

Steamboat Olympians, 2022

STEAMBOAT'S OLYMPIAN HISTORY THROUGH THE YEARS

Steamboat Spring's nearly 100-year Olympic tradition is unmatched in the world. "Steamboat's true sense of community, individuals who have genuine friendly attitudes, combined with world-class terrain and abundant snow make this simply a great place to live," said Rob Perlman, President and Chief Operating Officer for Steamboat Ski & Resort Corporation. "Imagine you are one of Steamboat's Olympic, World, National or X-Games Champions. You've skied all over the world, and you can live anywhere you want. Would you pick your second favorite place? Neither did any of Steamboat's Olympians."

Steamboat's skiing heritage began back in the early 1900s, when high-flying Norwegian Carl Howelsen showed locals that skis could be used for fun as well as work at the local ski hill in downtown Steamboat Springs. Today, that local hill, Howelsen Hill, is the oldest ski area in continuous use in Colorado and has the largest and most complete natural ski jumping complex in North America. Howelsen Hill is aptly named after Carl Howelsen, who earned the nickname "The Flying Norseman" for his ski jumping act with Barnum and Bailey's Circus. Howelsen is credited with bringing Nordic jumping to the Yampa Valley.

Howelsen Hill is where the likes of South Korea bronze medalist Arielle Gold honed her skills trying to keep up with her brother Olympian Taylor Gold. Where six-time Olympian and World Champion Todd Lodwick, the most successful U.S. Nordic combined skier, first snapped on his skis at age 7. It was the training ground of World Champion and four-time Olympian Johnny Spillane, who made history by becoming the first American to win a medal in Nordic combined at the Winter Games and World Championships. It's where Steamboat's first family of skiing, the Werners, first learned the craft every afternoon after school, and it's the home of the first freestyle camps, The Great Western Freestyle Center, which produced many of the nation's first freestyle athletes. It's where a young Clint Jones first learned to soar as a ski jumper at age 5 en route to becoming the youngest American champion in any ski discipline. It's where 1984 Olympic gold medalist Deb Armstrong served as Steamboat Springs Winter Sports Club Alpine director to instill the same skills, determination and drive in young, up-and-coming club athletes.

Steamboat has a long tradition in the sport and is not only considered the birthplace of freestyle skiing in the hotdog days of the 1970s, but also Nordic jumping in Colorado going back to the early 1900s. Including the 2022 Games, Steamboat's Winter Olympians have represented more than 10 countries/territories and made more than 150 Olympic appearances throughout 21 Winter Games.

Steamboat has more winter Olympians than any other town in North America with 100 and counting who have trained with the Steamboat Springs Winter Sports Club. These Olympians are comprised of athletes who trained with the Steamboat Springs Winter Sports Club, trained in Steamboat, or call/have called Steamboat Springs home for more than five years.

Today, many Olympians still call Steamboat home and continue to train or coach with the Winter Sports Club, one of the largest and oldest winter sports clubs in the United States, as well as ski at Steamboat. Many of the club's coaches have championship medals tucked under their belts and now offer their experience and expertise to young Olympic hopefuls participating in the program's specialized disciplines: Alpine, cross-country, freestyle, Nordic combined, ski jumping, snowboarding and biathlon.

In Steamboat, the Winter Games are more than just a dream, they're a very attainable goal. Kids know many Olympians on a first-name basis, ride beside them daily and have the support of the entire community. On Mount Werner, kids enjoy the snowy terrain alongside Olympic legends Billy Kidd, Jim "Moose" Barrows, Ann Battelle, Nelson Carmichael, Caroline Lalive, Todd Lodwick, Johnny Spillane, Erin Simmons and Mick Dierdorff, to name a few.

Steamboat's Famous Champagne Powder® Snow

STEAMBOAT'S FAMOUS CHAMPAGNE POWDER

Snow piling up is a common occurrence in Steamboat-Ski Town, U.S.A.®, and finding pure Champagne Powder® snow on the slopes of Steamboat isn't difficult.

The abundant snowfall is a result of Steamboat's location within the Park Range, which is the first significant barrier in the northern Colorado Rockies to storms arriving from the Pacific. Wintertime northwesterly storms blow in from the Pacific and hitch a ride on predominant winds. Along the way, these wet clouds encounter low temperatures in the lower part of the troposphere — roughly five degrees Fahrenheit at 2,000 to 5,000 feet above the earth's surface— where moisture attaches to dust or tiny frozen drops and begins to form a large lace-like snowflake known as the stellar dendrite. The storm clouds are saturated with "supercooled water" that remains liquid even though it is below the freezing point. (The water is essentially looking for particles to freeze to.) It is this rare combination that is responsible for the frequent occurrence of rimed crystals resulting in the formation of Steamboat's famous Champagne Powder® snow. On cold mornings these rimed crystals form layers on tree branches and chairlifts resulting in beautiful rime ice.

Steamboat is a micro mountain range that includes Mount Werner as well as Storm, Sunshine, Thunderhead and Christie peaks. The Park Range rises up in the middle of the flight path of these Pacific-born storms. When the clouds encounter the mountains, they lift rapidly then cool, ultimately losing their ability to hold moisture. Another way to explain it: The storms slam into the Park Range, and the upslope strips the clouds of moisture, so the snow that falls has incredibly low water content. Down come the stellar dendrites, better known as Champagne Powder® flakes, and out come the fat boards and the excuses to miss work.

Here's a look at how Mother Nature turns water into something worth celebrating. Champagne Powder® snow is truly unique and can only be found right there in Steamboat. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=SQVX82DgJiU>

WINTER

Prediction Folklore: Old legends say that several time-honored folk tales can predict the severity of the upcoming winter. For example, skunk cabbage, nature's snow gauge, is said to predict the depth of next season's snow. Instead of relying on the weather service or farmer's almanac, local ranchers, who have worked the land for generations, also keep a watchful eye on the size of the woolly bear caterpillar stripes, hay crop harvest, timing of blackbird migration, height of beaver dams, and of course, skunk cabbage, which already towers over your head in many areas. This year, we'll just have to watch the signs

Three-wire winters: Steamboat enjoys more than its fair share of three-wire winters, when the snow stacks up past the third row of ranch fence wires. Yampa Valley ranchers have traditionally measured the severity of a Routt County winter by how high the snow stacks up against their four fence wires. As Sureva Towler writes in her book The History of Skiing at Steamboat Springs, "By January or February of a typical winter, snow will cover the third fence wire, usually 30 inches high." Four-wire winters, generally more than 350 inches at the resort's mid-mountain location, are recorded frequently, as well.

On film: Steamboat's unique location and signature Champagne Power Snow have captured the cinematic attention of legendary filmmakers Warren Miller Entertainment. The resort has appeared in more than 16 films since 1982, and Steamboat Springs made its most recent appearance in the 21/22 season.

Bridgestone Winter Driving School: Learning to handle your car on snow-packed roads is possible at the Bridgestone Winter Driving School. The school teaches the theory and practice of skillful, confident driving on ice and snow with the latest models of Toyota vehicles. Located in Steamboat Springs, the school is America's first and foremost institution to teach safe winter driving techniques. There's not another school like this in the United States.

Steamboat Powdercats: Steamboat Powdercats has been a respected leader in the snowcat skiing industry since its inception in 1983 by Jupiter and Barbara Jones. Based in Steamboat Springs and celebrating more than 30 year of operation, Steamboat Powdercats guides guests daily in snowcats into the Buffalo Pass backcountry, Colorado's deepest annual snowpack. Since those early days, tens of thousands of guests have utilized Steamboat Powdercats, including celebrities Warren Miller, Martina Navratilova, Cindy Nelson, Dr. Richard Steadman, Klaus Obermeyer, Billy Kidd, Doak and Skeeter Walker, Ricky Mewborn and Seth Morrison. Warren Miller Films and a handful of other filming and clothing companies have also included Steamboat Powdercats in their ski films and commercials.

Storm Peak Laboratory: Steamboat is home to one of the country's highest climate laboratories, located at 10,568 feet atop Mount Werner. High-elevation, mountain-top atmospheric research facilities, such as Storm Peak Lab, are readily accessible under all weather conditions and are limited in number worldwide. Examples of these facilities include Jungfrauoch (Switzerland), Mauna Loa Observatory (Hawaii), Mount Zeppelin (Norway) and Sonnblick (Austria). Scientists and students from around the world have used the Storm Peak Lab over the past 30 years to study snowfall patterns, climate change and weather movements. What better place to study snow and climate than the home of Champagne Powder® snow? www.stormpeak.dri.edu.

STEAMBOAT SNOW FACTS

Champagne Powder® Snow: This unique snow is a trademark of Steamboat Ski & Resort Corp. Local rancher Joe McElroy coined the phrase before the ski area opened. While out skiing one sunny day in the early '50s on terrain that eventually would become the ski area, McElroy turned to a few friends and said the stuff tickled his nose like champagne. No other ski resort has its snow trademarked, and there's no other place you'll find Champagne Powder® snow than in Steamboat.

Largest Single Snow Day: February 20, 2012 will go down in history as the day the snow wouldn't stop falling as 27 inches of Champagne Powder® snow piled up for a single-day snowfall record at mid-mountain (24 hours from 5am to 5am). The single-day record at the summit stands at 29 inches, recorded on January 25, 1996.

Innovative Programs Make Steamboat a Top Family Resort

FAMILY PROGRAMS AT STEAMBOAT RESORT

Steamboat has built a reputation as one of the best family ski resorts in North America and continues to focus on its award-winning family programs to create the best winter experience on and off the mountain in Ski Town, U.S.A.®. Steamboat is continually ranked as one of the best family ski destinations in North America.

“Steamboat has always been at the forefront of creating innovative children and family programs in the ski industry over the past 50 years,” said Rob Perlman, president and COO of Steamboat Ski & Resort Corp. “With pioneering programs like Kids Ski Free™, Kids Rent Free, and Steamboat’s young kids lessons at Greenhorn Ranch, Steamboat continues to distance itself from every other resort within the industry as the leader in family programs and entertainment.”

Steamboat has been on the cutting edge in the family arena since the Steamboat Springs Winter Sports Club first hit the slopes at historic Howelsen Hill in 1913. The community has embraced snow with an almost fanatic zeal enabling it to reach significant milestones including Steamboat’s first Winter Carnival in 1914, public schools accredited ski curriculum in 1944, Audrey Light Temple’s Little Toots Program organized in 1957, Soda Pop Slalom in 1973, and the first International Winter Special Olympics in 1977.

Since then, numerous innovations, based upon that same early pioneering spirit, have followed at the ski resort. Steamboat set the standard within the industry by pioneering the first Kids Ski Free^o program back in 1982, later adding Kids Rent Free.

“We believe the best way to enjoy Steamboat is with family and friends,” Perlman said. “Unlike many sports, multiple generations of family can ski and ride together, creating lifelong memories and traditions we hope continue for years to come.”

YOUNG KIDS LESSONS (6 AND UNDER)

Steamboat places an emphasis on top quality childcare programming and our program is designed around taking care of children in a safe, nurturing and age appropriate setting. The Steamboat young kids programs are a one-stop ski shop for families with small children, and all lesson products include life access, lunch, lesson instruction and equipment rental option.

NIGHT SKIING & RIDING

From mid-December through late March, night skiing and riding lights up the evening for the entire family. The resort installed lighting from the top of Christie Peak via the Christie Peak Express chairlift to the base area. Roughly 1,100 vertical feet of terrain is available on several trails, including Sitz, See Me, Vogue, Stampede and Lil’ Rodeo Terrain Park. Steamboat operates at night from Thursday through Sunday for three hours from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

COMPLIMENTARY TOURS

Nelson on Nelson’s Run: Nelson Carmichael — 1992 Olympic bronze medalist, two-time World Cup Mogul Champion, six-time U.S. National Mogul Champion and Professional Mogul Tour Champion — hosts a free mogul clinic on Nelson’s Run at 1 p.m. on select Sundays throughout the season. Check the grooming report to see if Nelson is skiing.

COMMUNITY

Doing Good: It's in our nature to protect nature. But our efforts go far beyond the environment. In addition to treating the planet well, we believe in treating our people and community well. And along the way, contribute to those who are our vision and passion for Doing Good. It's always been part of our pioneering spirit to lead the way. See below Steamboat Resort's current Doing Good initiative to give back to the community.

Women+ Network: In its third year, the Steamboat Women+ Leadership Network continues to empower more than 50 women and those who identify as women at the resort. Through a speaker series and monthly networking events, the program aims to inspire and empower women to thrive personally and professionally.

Connection to Land: As part of our broader sustainability initiatives, SSRC recognizes our strong connection to our mountain and forest and the habitat that they provide for local wildlife. Because of that, Steamboat works closely with local wildlife experts on initiatives to protect wildlife, including winter closure for elk, educational campaigns to prevent guests from feeding Canada Jays, and a moose study to help preserve their habitat and ensure the safety of our skiers and riders/

SOS Outreach and Share Winter: In a partnership between Steamboat Resort, SOS Outreach, Alterra Mountain Company and Share Winter, 150 students from NW Colorado will get to experience the mountain and learn life skills, core values, and a strong sense of belonging. All the children in the program will be given equipment, lessons, and lift tickets for a five day ski program that uses outdoor experiences to develop leadership skills and equip the youth for life.

Passport Club: The Passport Club is a longstanding partnership between the Yampa Valley Community Foundation and Steamboat Ski & Resort Corp. The resort annually donates Silver Medallions, parking and other incentives that the YVCF offers at premiere pricing levels. Sales of the Passport Club medallions create unrestricted funds to support the YVCF resulting in thousands of dollars for charitable grants that address current and future community needs. Since its inception the Passport Club has generated nearly $5million for Community Support.

Resort Philanthropy: Annually the resort awards more than 1.5 million dollars to local organizations through scholarships, grants, donations and in-kind support.

Community Participation: Employees of Steamboat Ski Resort engage and support the Yampa Valley through numerous organizations, sitting on boards, acting as volunteers, donating their time and supporting events and activities. Employees currently serve on boards including the Ag Alliance, Steamboat Chamber, Young Professionals Network, Steamboat Reading, Partners in Routt County, Boys & Girls Club, Steamboat Housing Authority, etc.

Employer-Based Childcare: To take a lead role to address the childcare crisis in Routt County, Steamboat Ski Resort is proud to announce the opening of an employer-based childcare facility slated to open during the winter 22.23 season. Steamboat Resort is one of only a handful of ski resorts to offer this crucial benefit to parents who work at the resort, and is one of eight Colorado businesses selected to participate in a one-of-a-kind design lab for employer-based early childhood education centers through Executives Partnering to Invest in Children (EPIC) which will help the resort guide the development process. Additionally, Steamboat was awarded an Employer Based Child Care facility Grant by the Colorado Department of Human Services. SSRC was one of only 10 recipients statewide and the only ski resort to receive the grant which funds organizations creating and opening a childcare facility specifically for their employees. Providing childcare to SSRC staff is expected to free up to 35 childcare spaces in Routt County, considered a childcare desert by the Colorado Office of Early Childhood.

Steamboat History Full of Western Lore, Pioneering Spirit

EARLY HISTORY

Steamboat's history goes back as early as the 14th century when it is believed that the nomadic Ute Indians spent summers in the Yampa Valley. The Utes roamed the vast lands alone until the 1800s, when early settlers ventured into the valley.

Three French fur trappers traveling down the Yampa River are said to have named Steamboat Springs in 1865. One man heard a chugging sound like that of a paddle wheel steamer. The men hurried toward the sound and found it to be a bubbling mineral spring. The numerous springs around Steamboat are still popular today as a source of relaxation and are rumored to have medicinal benefits.

Steamboat Springs' first permanent settler was James Harvey Crawford, who discovered the Yampa Valley region while on a hunting trip along the Gore Trail in fall 1874. Crawford staked a homestead claim during this trip and moved to Steamboat Springs the following year with his family.

Stories about the beauty of the Yampa Valley spread, and other families relocated to the area. Among the early pioneers were prominent Missourians Perry A. Burgess and William H. Walton. Along with Crawford and a few others, they entered preemption laws for the town site known as Steamboat Springs. Each took 160 acres and registered a homestead, forming the first community.

The first major catalyst to growth came in summer 1883, when H. H. Suttle opened a sawmill. With the capacity to produce logs for homes and stores, further community development was assured. One of the first businesses to open was the Steamboat Pilot newspaper, which printed its first edition on July 31, 1885. By 1886, the town business district also included a general store, post office and hotel.

ORIGINS OF SKIING IN STEAMBOAT

Communication with the outside world was difficult due to long winters and poor road conditions. On snowshoes and skis, mail carriers delivered letters and parcels. Faced with mountain passes and the prospect of settling where winter lasts six months and averages nearly 30 feet of snow, pioneers quickly learned to travel the same way.

In the early 1900s, the same hardy settlers who battled winters to survive began turning the hills of Routt County into a winter playground. The change accelerated with the help of Norwegian Carl Howelsen, who arrived in Steamboat Springs in 1912. Soon after his arrival, Howelsen was ski jumping off a wooden platform in Strawberry Park and teaching the sport to local youngsters.

In 1913, Howelsen organized the first Winter Carnival and jumping competitions. During the 1917 Winter Carnival, Steamboat Springs honored the man who transformed skiing from a means of transportation to a sport by naming the ski slope Howelsen Hill.

As skiing grew more popular, adventurous downhillers sought new hills to test their abilities. When Rabbit Ears Pass opened to winter traffic in 1938, the Forest Service cut two runs down the back slopes of the pass to the Valley View Lodge. For the next few years, numerous Winter Carnival events took place on these hills.

STEAMBOAT SKI RESORT IS BORN

In 1955, Jim Temple, son of a local ranching family, spearheaded the development of Steamboat Ski Area in response to the growing popularity of the sport, and the new hill opened in 1961 with one Poma lift, the Cub Claw, and $2 lift tickets.

The ski area did not open for the 1961/62 season due to the inability of a lift manufacturer to complete an order for a double chairlift. Storm Mountain officially reopened January 12, 1963, with a double chairlift and an A-frame warming house. The day's cash receipts were $13.75, and the temperature hovered at -25 degrees F. The two years following were profitable for the ski area, which helped in gaining permits from the Forest Service to expand the area.

Steamboat lost its favorite son when hometown Olympic skier Buddy Werner was killed in an avalanche in Switzerland on April 12, 1964. Storm Mountain was renamed Mount Werner in his honor.

By the end of the decade, Mount Werner had five new chairlifts, a modern restaurant facility atop Thunderhead Peak, ski patrol buildings, a nursery and numerous maintenance and snow vehicles. This million-dollar building boom generated excitement and development, making tourism a prominent part of the local economy.

The 1st International Winter Special Olympics were held on Headwall during February 1977. The event brought athletes from around the world together for four days of competition. Special guests included Olympic Gold Medalist Bruce Jenner, Colorado Governor Richard Lamm, Ethel Kennedy, Eunice Shriver and Steamboat Director of Skiing Billy Kidd. In addition, Kidd played host at Steamboat to the first Jimmie Heuga Express for MS in 1986, starting a tradition that has spread to resorts across the country.

Steamboat illuminated a new tradition when night skiing and riding premiered on December 20, 2014, utilizing Snow-Bright Lighting, a new technology developed by Ultra-Tech Lighting. Spread across 85 light towers with more than 375 full-color spectrum lights, the system employs a comprehensive line of magnetic induction lighting specifically tailored to address the complexities and unique requirements of illuminating snow in all its varieties while minimizing glare and reflected light. Roughly 1,100 vertical feet of terrain off the Christie Peak Express chairlift is available on five trails including Sitz, See Me, Vogue, Stampede and Lil' Rodeo Terrain Park.

RESORT OWNERSHIP THROUGH THE YEARS

Ownership of the ski resort changed several times in the 1970s and '80s. Previous resort owners include LTV Recreational Development, Inc. (1969-1979); Northwest Colorado Ski Corporation spearheaded by Martin Hart (1979-1989); and Kamori International (1989-1997). Steamboat was purchased by American Skiing Company during the 1997/98 season. In March 2007, Intrawest ULC (www.intrawest.com), a world leader in experiential destination resorts, acquired Steamboat Ski & Resort Corporation. Including Steamboat, Intrawest has a network of resorts at North America's most popular mountain destinations including Blue Mountain, Snowshoe, Stratton, Tremblant, Winter Park and Canadian Mountain Holidays, the largest heli-skiing operation in the world. In the spring of 2017, Alterra Mountain Company was formed with the purchase of former Intrawest properties and Squaw Alpine Meadows. The company grew quickly after acquiring mountains on the east and west coasts as well as in Canada. In early 2018, Alterra introduced the Ikon Pass, revolutionizing the way people ski and snowboard by expanding the pass and partnering with 36 destinations around the world.

In 2021, under Alterra's ownership, the resort embarked on a multi-year, multi-million dollar resort transformation project, Full Steam Ahead, the largest resort transformation in resort history. The four-year redevelopment projects takes the resorts pioneering spirit and vision that created Steamboat to elevate the guest experience for years to come.

MOUNTAIN COMPANY

Ski Town, U.S.A.®

Steamboat-Ski Town, U.S.A.® was founded by hardworking, friendly individuals and families that enjoyed making turns through the endless deep powder of Storm Mountain and the Yampa Valley. Members of the Werner, Fetcher, Temple, Crawford, Perry, Wren and Nash families as well as Billy Kidd, Moose Barrows, Nelson Carmichael and a plethora of other Steamboat Olympians can still be found enjoying all that Mount Werner has to offer, including its legendary Champagne Powder® snow.

Many things have changed throughout Steamboat's history, but one has remained steadfastly constant throughout the past five decades: its legendary Champagne Powder snow. It's always light, dry and plentiful! And, after more than 50 years, you still can't get Billy, Nelson, Moose or pioneering founders to tell you where their favorite powder stashes are located.

Since its humble start, Steamboat Ski Resort has grown into one of the premier resorts in the world offering 17 lifts, 170 trails and more than a dozen on-mountain restaurant facilities, all spread over 2,965 acres/1,200 hectares.

When Carl Howelsen introduced recreational skiing to Steamboat Springs in 1913, he could never have realized the tradition he was starting. Steamboat has produced more winter Olympians than any other town in North America — a record 100 and counting.

Perhaps the town's Olympic heritage is due to the fact the community not only allows the kids to get out of school for a race, they encourage it. Perhaps it's because of one of the largest winter sports clubs in the United States: the Steamboat Springs Winter Sports Club. Whatever the reason, Steamboat is sure to always remain Ski Town, U.S.A.®

STEAMBOAT - SKI TOWN, U.S.A.®

BY TOM BIE

The resort commissioned a commemorative hardcover book that explores the history, Olympic Tradition, seldom-known facts, resort founders and unique insights into Steamboat. The resort is about Champagne Powder snow and tree skiing, but it's also about the founding and building of the ski area, the famous barn and the hot springs. And did we mention the Lighted Man or Cowboy Downhill? From an early dream to the modern internationally acclaimed resort it is today, find out why Steamboat is the way it is, directly from the people that played a significant role in its development. Jim Temple, John Fetcher, Loris Werner, past resort presidents, longtime employees and Olympians offer a glimpse into the making of one of the premier ski resorts in the world. The resort teamed with author Tom Bie to produce the hardback book featuring 160 photos covering the ski area's 40-year history and milestone

TALES OF THE TRAIL

Themes: Many of the trails on the mountain are arranged with common themes, making it easier to remember where you have been. Storm Peak, for example, contains runs named after weather occurrences such as Twister, Hurricane, Rainbow, Cyclone and Tornado. Those on Sunshine Peak are named after time references. For example, High Noon, Sun Dial, One O'Clock, Two O'Clock and Three O'Clock are trails named for the hour at which they are hit by the sun while Morningside Park has an early morning theme, including breakfast favorites. Loris Werner approached Rolex Watches in 1985 to use the name and logo for the Rolex run in the Sunshine area. Pioneer Ridge® trail names feature early settlers and resort pioneers (Fetcher, Perry and Nash). In 2001, the resort installed Mavericks Superpipe, named for Steamboat's Western heritage, the culture of freeriding and a legendary big-wave break in California. Mother Nature was named after a natural event, a mudslide that ran from Betwixt to Lower Concentration.

Pioneers: Bashor Bowl is named for pioneer Carl Bashor (1886-1963), who was 17 years old when his parents homesteaded 160 acres now bisected by Giggle Gulch. He spent the next 60 years exploring Storm Mountain (now known as Mount Werner) on skis or on an Arabian horse. In addition, early trails Bear Claw, Cub Claw and Bear Park were named by area founder Jim Temple, who found trees scuffed by bear marks between the Christie and Thunderhead lifts. Gordy Wren thought the best run on the mountain, Buddy's Run, should be named for Steamboat Olympian Buddy

Werner, who was killed in an avalanche in Switzerland in 1964. Main Drag, Vogue, VooDoo, See Me, Vagabond, Heavenly Daze, Christie and Drop Out were named by the Fetchers, Wrens and Crawford in 1965 during dinner at the Stuart Robinson's Gallery restaurant. Marvin Crawford and Ken Maul pulled Vertigo, Oops and Yoo Hoo out of the blue. Four Points was named when John Fetcher and Gordy Wren spotted a four-point buck while searching for an upper terminal site. Elkhead was named when Loris Werner, Dick Randolph and John Fetcher found the head of an elk while exploring sites in the Priest Creek area in 1971. Hazie's, one of the resort's fine-dining restaurants, is named after Hazie Werner, mother of three Olympians (Buddy, Loris and Skeeter). Ragnar's, which opened in 1984, is named for Ragnar Omtvedt, Carl Howelsen's skiing companion, who set the first national jumping distance record in the West in 1916. Valley View was named for an early course at Rabbit Ears Pass, which was the site of the first downhill race in Routt County in 1939. Priest Creek takes its name after Chester F. Priest, the first settler on the creek. Gordy Wren, who thought it would be amusing and unique to compare a beginner's area to a precipice rising above the floor of a glacial basin, named Headwall.

Resort employees: Ted's Ridge is named for veteran snow groomer Ted Cordova, who started with slope maintenance in 1965. Rudi's Run, called Central Park from 1970-1986, was renamed in honor of longtime ski school supervisor Rudi Schnackenberg (father of ski patrol supervisor Larry Schnackenberg and former ski school administrative supervisor Ruth McClelland). Ski Patrol Director John Kohnke, then a lift operator, named Daybreak in a 1974 contest. Nearly 10 years later, patroller Matt Newman named Between in 1983. Huffman's was named for ski patroller Garry Huffman, killed in a snowmaking construction accident in 1981. Merle Nash named Jess' Cutoff for Jess Brenton, a heavy equipment operator who cut the first runs on the mountain while in his 70s. Nelson's Run is named for Nelson Carmichael, six-time U.S. champion and Steamboat Springs resident, after he won the bronze medal at the 1992 Winter Olympic Games in Albertville, France. Nelson was the first Steamboat Olympian to medal in the Olympics. Ski patroller and trail crewmember Wes Richey named Sundown after he helped cut the line. Spike was named when Loris Werner ran into a spike elk while searching for a trail location in 1982. Burgess Creek is named after Perry A. Burgess, 1875 homesteader and one of the early founders of Steamboat Springs.

Ranch brands: WJW and Bar-UE Lift are named after two ranches in the Werner family, which played a significant role in the development of the ski area. William Jerold Werner, a Nebraska farmer, came to Steamboat Springs in 1912 and ranched the mesa four miles south of town under the WJW brand. Edward "Pop" Werner, son of William and father of Loris, Buddy and Skeeter, later started his own ranch with his wife, Hazie, up the Elk River under the Bar-UE brand. Flying Z was named after South Routt rancher, cutter racer and county commissioner J. Frank Stetson's brand. Triangle 3 is named after Delbert Heid's ranch brand that his son Ray — an Olympian and cousin of Buddy, Loris and Skeeter Werner — now operates. Since 1965, brand inspector and Oak Creek rancher Raymond Pedersen has used the Crowtrack Quarter Circle brand, from which Crowtrack received its name. This brand was registered before Colorado became a state.

Nicknames: You might not find all of these on the trail map, but longtime locals might only know these areas by the following names: Dead Man's Curve, Squid, Spilt Rocks, Sun Dog, Art's Stash, Castles, Killer, Muskrat Alley, Twistercane, West High Noon, LA Freeway, Land of the Little People, Seven Turns, 12:30, 1:30, 2:30 and Sideburn.

Terrain parks: Steamboat's terrain parks first emerged on the scene in the early 1990s riding a wave of popularity. You might not know they carry names that pertain to an area of the mountain or theme. For instance, Sunbeam fits nicely into the Sunshine area theme. Lil' Rodeo, situated adjacent to Stampede Trail, came out of hosting the Cowboy Downhill for the past 40 years, and Rabbit Ears was named after a solid rock formation just over the hill. Maverick, by definition, is an independent individual so what better way to describe freeriders going to the highest heights in Marvericks halfpipe.

RESTAURANT NAMESAKES

The Range Food & Drink Hall: Paying homage to Steamboat's Western roots, the Range Food & Drink Hall is Steamboat's newest dining outlet features a variety of small stops including Sunshine Bowl Ramen, Pioneer Pies, Twister Tacos and Why Not Sandwich Spot. The second floor feature a full bar and lounge experience with indoor and outdoor seating options overlooking the mountain, the Steamboat Stage and Steamboat Square.

Hazie's: This high-Alpine bistro is named for Hazie Werner, mother of three Steamboat Olympians (Buddy, Loris and Skeeter) and the matriarch of the first family of Steamboat Springs.

Four Points: Four Points was named by John Fetcher and Gordy Wren when they spotted a four-point buck while searching for the ideal location for the upper lift terminal in the late 1960s.

The Cabin: The Cabin was modeled off a similar facility at a then sister-resort when Steamboat was owned by American Skiing Company. The Cabin's ambiance reflects a mix of the contemporary with the Western heritage of Steamboat Springs. The setting is that of mountain log cabin that creates an atmosphere reminiscent of a cozy, remote cabin.

Ragnar's: Named for Norwegian Ragnar Omtvedt, who set the set a world record of 192.5 feet in 1916 on a new ski jump, later to be named Howelsen Hill. In 1924, he was a member of the first U.S. Olympic team and competed at the Winter Olympics in Chamonix, France.

Rendezvous: Rendezvous was an annual gathering of trappers and mountain men during which they sold their furs and hides and replenished supplies. Today, Rendezvous provides the ideal gathering place in the saddle of Sunshine Bowl, where several trails come together for skiers and riders to tell their tales and refuel.

Thunderhead: Thunderhead carries the name for the mountain peak on which it is situated at 9,080 feet/2,768m above sea level.

Stoker: The Boiler Room Bar was renamed the Stoker Bar & Restaurant back in 1979 when the resort enlarged the facility from 60 seats to its present size. Since its location was in the bottom of the Thunderhead facility, it was named for the coal stoking area of the engine room of a coal-fired Steamboat ship.

Go Joe's Express: As the resort looked to add a quick grab-and-go location to the underutilized space on the main level of Thunderhead at the top of the gondola, Go Joe's Express was the perfect permutation of the popular base area bistro Gondola Joe's. Go Joe's and Go Joe's Express are tied together not only by the Steamboat Gondola but also by a focus on natural, healthy and made-to-order menu items and coffees.

Thunderhead Red's: The specialty bar, located on the third floor of Thunderhead Lodge, matched the name of Thunderhead Peak with a specialty red beer made specifically for Steamboat at the time by its beer sponsor, Budweiser.

Timber & Torch: The centerpiece restaurant for Gondola Square, named for the resort's legendary trees and Olympian heritage.

Cowboy Downhill Celebrates 49th Year in Steamboat

COWBOY DOWNHILL HISTORY

Steamboat is steeped in tradition, whether it's the long-standing Olympian heritage or the deep western roots, which is why it's no surprise the Cowboy Downhill has remained one of Steamboat's highlight events for 48 years. Cowboys have long called Steamboat home, and on any given day, you can find true locals hitting the slopes in their cowboy hats or saddling up to the bar in their cowboy boots. But on one particular day for more than four decades, the western heritage of Steamboat collides with skiing and snowboarding as professional cowboys and cowgirls take their talents to the snow.

"There's no other event like the Cowboy Downhill," said Rob Perlman, president and chief operating officer for Steamboat. "Professional cowboys are about the heat of competition, and Steamboat knows competition better than any ski resort in the country, so combining the two for the entertainment of all is a natural fit."

ProRodeo Champions from across North America are invited to stampe their way down the slopes of Steamboat-Ski Town, U.S.A.® in the 48th annual Cowboy Downhill on Monday, Jan. 16, 2023. A can't-miss event in Steamboat, the Cowboy Downhill attracts professional cowboys from across the United States as well as Australia, Canada, Europe and Mexico. The race bursts out of the chutes on the base area beginner trail Stampede at 1:30 p.m.

The Cowboy Downhill started in 1974 when Larry Mahan, six-time All-Around World Champion cowboy, and Billy Kidd, Steamboat's Director of Skiing and an Olympic medalist, decided it would be fun to invite a few of the ProRodeo stars from the Denver Stock Show up to Steamboat for a day of skiing and racing fun.

"Larry called me up and said, 'I want to learn to ski, and I heard you're the guy to teach me,'" Kidd said. "The next year, he brought up a couple friends, and when you get two or three rodeo cowboys together, you've got a contest. That was the beginning of the Cowboy Downhill, and we haven't looked back since."

Mahan said he never guessed the event would become such a success, but ski racers and cowboys share certain personality characteristics that have no doubt translated into the growing appeal of the Cowboy Downhill. "I think the common denominator between the people that race and live on the edge in the ski world is the same with the guys in the rodeo," Mahan said. "They are thrill seekers."

COWBOY DOWNHILL RULES

All Cowboy Downhill participants must be entered in the National Western Stock Show & Rodeo in Denver scheduled for January 2024, be a member of the ProRodeo Cowboys Association or Professional Bull Riders, and wear chaps and a cowboy hat to compete in the event.

The day's events begin with the dual slalom race. After negotiating the slalom gates and on-course jump, the cowboys must lasso a person, saddle a horse and cross the finish line in the fastest time and in one piece. The grand finale of the Cowboy Downhill is a chaotic western stampe on skis and snowboards. The Stampede event utilizes a mass start and pits cowboy against cowboy in a winner-takes-all race down the slopes. The greatest challenge for the winner is getting out of the way of a hundred other cowboys hurtling down the hill in hot pursuit.

LEGENDS & FOUNDERS CLUB

During the silver anniversary of the Cowboy Downhill in 1999, Steamboat honored 15 individuals who helped start the event. The idea caught on, and the next year, the resort established the Legends & Founders Club as a way to honor those individuals who have played an instrumental role in founding and supporting the event since its inception in 1974. The driving forces behind establishing this signature competition were naturally the inaugural inductees: Billy Kidd, Larry Mahan and J.C. Trujillo. An exclusive group, the club is made up of individuals who have all had a significant impact on the sport, event and Steamboat Springs over the Cowboy Downhill's more than 40 years.

Billy Kidd moved to Steamboat Springs, Colorado, shortly after his Olympic accomplishments. Kidd grew up in Stowe, Vermont and raced internationally for nine years on the U.S. Ski Team. While racing, he studied at the University of Colorado and graduated in 1969 with a degree in economics. After establishing his prominence in the ski world in the 1964 Olympics, Billy marked yet another first for American men by becoming the first person to win both amateur and pro World Championships in a single year in 1970. Better yet, he won both within a two-week time frame. Kidd has been Steamboat's director of skiing for more than 40 years.

Larry Mahan is one of the greats of professional rodeo and one of its first mainstream media stars. He started competing professionally in 1964, and by 1966, he won his first of five consecutive all-around championships. (He won a record-setting sixth championship in 1973.) A champion in roughstock events (riding broncs and bulls), Mahan also helped professional radio gain exposure to a larger audience. He flew his own plane, wore loud plaid shirts, had longish hair and made appearances on TV talk shows and in magazine ads. He retired from competition in 1977, having somehow escaped major injuries after 1,200 rodeos. Now, Mahan has a clothing line of western wear and appears occasionally as a television commentator and at the Cowboy Downhill.

J.C. Trujillo began his rodeo career at age 6 in his hometown of Prescott, Ariz. His early prowess resulted in the bareback riding title of the Arizona Junior Rodeo Association. He later participated in the Arizona State University rodeo team and won the 1968 National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association championship. Trujillo turned professional in 1967 and hit the circuit full throttle five years later, eventually qualifying for the National Finals Rodeo 12 times. Long known as one of rodeo's most magnetic personalities and a great spokesman for the sport, Trujillo combines his love of rodeo and skiing in the Cowboy Downhill, held every January in Steamboat Springs. He is famous for his realistic and ever-positive attitude and is instrumental in the prestige the Cowboy Downhill now enjoys.

Charlie Mayfield, 30-year industry veteran, held several executive positions in the ski business including vice president of marketing for SolVista Basin, Colorado Ski Country USA and Steamboat Ski & Resort Corp. While in Steamboat-Ski Town, U.S.A.®, Mayfield was a driving force behind many of the early Cowboy Downhill events. He started his career in the industry as a member of the ski patrol at Steamboat and worked his way up to executive positions in marketing and guest services

Night Skiing and Riding at Steamboat Resort

THE NIGHT SKIING EXPERIENCE

The Steamboat guest experience is elevated with skiing and riding under the lights four nights a week from Dec. 14, 2023, through March 24, 2024 and nightly during the holiday time period from Dec. 25 through Jan. 1. The resort premiered its night skiing and riding experience under state-of-the-art Ultra-Tech™ Lighting on the lower mountain of the ski area during the 2013/14 season.

“Night skiing and riding has extended the enjoyment of this key guest amenity late into the evening,” said Rob Perlman, president and chief operating officer for Steamboat Ski & Resort Corp. “Most guests have a night skiing memory from growing up and Steamboat is helping to create new memories for so many people as more guests enjoy this fantastic opportunity.”

Steamboat provides night skiing and riding from the top of Christie Peak, via the Christie Peak Express six-passenger chairlift, to the base area. Roughly 1,100 vertical feet of terrain is available on five trails, including Sitz, See Me, Vogue, Stampede and Lil’ Rodeo Terrain Park. Steamboat’s night experience will begin Dec. 15, well before the popular Christmas and New Year’s holiday period.

Since night skiing first emerged on the scene, lighting technology has made dramatic advancements. Steamboat Ski Area utilizes technology developed by Ultra-Tech™ Lighting that significantly improves the night skiing experience. The system, nearly 90 light towers, employs a comprehensive line of magnetic induction lighting specifically tailored to address the complexities and unique requirements of illuminating snow while minimizing glare and reflected light visible by the community. The appeal of the new technology is threefold: It limits light pollution, the 300-watts bulbs use less energy than their 1,000-watt counterparts, and there are significant energy savings for lights lasting 100,000 hours compared with conventional lights.

“Night skiing has come a long way with technology advancements,” Perlman said. “We want folks to come out and enjoy the energy and excitement this brings to the base area.”

Steamboat Ski & Sport, located slopeside in the Sheraton, provides the latest in rental equipment in sport, all-mountain and demo categories during the evenings. The Timber and Torch restaurant is the ideal location to warm up, refuel or watch all the action under the lights.

SnowSports School Instructors Among Best in Country

STEAMBOAT SNOWSPORTS SCHOOL

Known for having some of the best instructors in North America — including former Olympians, World Champions and nationally ranked athletes — the Steamboat SnowSports School tailors each class to individual needs guaranteeing a successful day on snow. Whether guests are putting on boots for the first time or hoping to take their skills to the next level, the SnowSports School can help everyone achieve their goals.

“ Our Steamboat pros embody all the things you love about Steamboat. They have an Olympian drive for excellence balanced perfectly with a welcoming and friendly nature that makes skiing and snowboarding with us a world class experience,” SnowSports School Director Nelson Wingard said. “At Steamboat we know passion for skiing and riding comes first, then the skills develop to support it. That’s our way, the Steamboat way.”

Steamboat’s learning experience takes place at Steamboat’s world class beginner’s area, Greenhorn Ranch. First timer’s skiers and riders begin their adventure at 7,513ft in a separate area dedicated to learning on-mountain, instead of the previous location in the base area. Greenhorn Ranch offers the ideal slope graded for beginners with a 0% to 15% angle, and progressive Terrain-Based Learning developed with Snow Operating and a dedicated chairlift. Terrain shaped enhancements along with a dedicated magic carpet accelerates the learning process and instills confidence, enthusiasm, and plenty of fun.

“No matter what level skier or rider you are, everyone can use a lesson to excel,” Wingard said. “Think about all the Olympic athletes Steamboat has produced. They are at the top of their field, yet they continue to take lessons from their coaches, always striving to learn new tools and achieve new goals.”

The Steamboat SnowSports School comprises Professional Ski Instructors of America, American Association of Snowboard Instructors, winter Olympians, national team members and more than 550 instructors trained in the latest teaching techniques.

STARS Adaptive Skiing & Riding

ADAPTIVE PROGRAMMING AT STEAMBOAT RESORT

Steamboat has teamed with Steamboat Adaptive Recreational Sports (STARS) to open the world of outdoor mountain activities to people with disabilities.

“Since 1976, specially trained and adaptive certified instructors have hosted wounded military members, children with special needs and visually impaired individuals,” said Jim Schneider, vice president of skier services and past president of the STARS board of directors. “When you see all the smiles at the end of the day, you realize the impact adaptive sports have on people’s lives and the world it opens for many.”

This year the STARS facility moves to the Sheraton Hotel, a year-round mountain home to complement their Ranch facility located just outside of town. The location is a one-stop location for adaptive athletes, including lesson information, check-in and adaptive equipment.
